Bottleneck on Mysuru-Bengaluru Highway Ring Road junction

Flyover in approval stage, NHAI to take up works: MP

MP Pratap Simha inspecting the Kempegowda Circle Junction (Mysuru-Bengaluru Highway Ring Road junction) near Manipal Hospital this morning along with Traffic ACP H. Parashuramappa and other officials.

Mysuru, May 25 (RK&BCT)- In an attempt to ease the perennial traffic bottleneck on the Mysuru-Bengaluru Highway Ring Road junction (Kempegowda Circle) near Manipal Hospital, Mysuru-Kodagu MP Pratap Simha inspected the stretch this morning.

He was accompanied by PWD, Police and other officers. The MP said that the proposal to build a flyover has been sent to the Centre.

"We have foreseen the problem and have sent the flyover proposal a few months back. It is in the approval stage and the National Highways Authority of India (NHAI) will take up the works," Pratap Simha said.

The Mysuru-Bengaluru National Highway-275, now developed as an Access-Controlled Expressway, meets the Outer Ring Road junction near Manipal Hospital — Mysuru exit point and Bengaluru entry point — has become one of the major traffic bottlenecks.

During peak hours, weekends and holidays, this junction becomes a major cause of traffic congestion and delay as trucks, buses, cars and two-wheelers jostle to move ahead. The wait to cross this junction takes about 30 to 45 minutes and the situation worsens during peak hours, weekends and holidays.

A stop-gap solution: It may be mentioned here that the City Police recently implemented a stop-gap solution to alleviate the frequent traffic congestion at the Kempegowda Circle junction. The Narasimharaja Traffic Police, based on the directives issued by DCP (Crime and Traffic) S. Jahnavi, widened the Circle by relocating the signal light poles approximately 10 feet away from their original positions and reducing the length of the medians.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

A key emerging challenge for cities is preserving the area's natural water bodies. Many Indian cities, even those receiving high annual rainfall, face an acute water shortage due to rapid urbanisation and unregulated water pollution of lakes due to sewage and solid waste discharge, agricultural and industrial run-off, and accumulated silt. According to a World Wide Fund for Nature (WWF) report, 30 Indian cities will be vulnerable to a 'grave water risk' by 2050 due to population upsurges and the climate crisis. One way to mitigate this is through rejuvenating wetlands and water bodies. Technology can mitigate water contamination in two ways: by monitoring water quality and using water-quality observations to devise suitable remedies.

Conservationists partner with tech firms that can leverage Internet of Things (IoT) and Machine Learning (ML) devices to protect lakes. They install wireless sensor networks over a large area to monitor the water body's health parameters like chlorophyll, dissolved oxygen concentration and nitrate in real-time and analyse water health to assess its habitability for water species. The data goes to a central cloud platform that allows experts to assess water quality and devise an appropriate treatment.

Technology holds great promise for enhancing public satisfaction with urban environments. It can make cities healthier, more sustainable, and more inclusive for all residents. — Prakash Kumar in Deccan Herald

Visitors spot 'Nike shoes' in 400-year-old painting

London: Visitors to the National Gallery in London were left baffled by what appeared to be the iconic logo in a 400-year-old painting.

'Portrait of Frederick Sluysken', was painted by Dutch master Ferdinand Bol in the 17th century, and it appears little Frederick is wearing some very modern shoes.

It would be impossible for him to be wearing Nike shoes, considering the footwear brand was founded in 1964 - unless the painting is proof of time travel, of course.

Fiona Foskett, 57, visited the gallery with her 23-year-old daughter Holly when they spotted the footwear. "Hold on, is he wearing a pair of Nike trainers?"', she told her daughter.

Looking at the age, he must have got his hands on the first pair of Nike trainers ever made. Or is he actually a time traveller?

People hired to dress as birds to scare seagulls

England: A zoo is recruiting people to wear giant inflatable bird costumes to scare off seagulls.

Blackpool Zoo in England posted the advert for 'Seagull Deterrents' after food thefts from visitors and enclosures.

One requirement is candidates must be 'outgoing' as they 'need to be comfortable wearing a bird costume'.

The job advert reads: At Blackpool Zoo we love all animals! And as a seaside resort, Blackpool is not short of seagulls. However, the seagulls are proving to be a bit of a nuisance when it comes to trying to steal food from our visitors and our animal enclosures!

We need to keep the seagulls away from our visitor dining areas, which is why we are looking for people to join our Visitor Services team as "Seagull Deterrents".

A body blow to heritage of Namma Mysuru

Sir,

Apropos the article titled 'Is Lalitha Mahal Hotel going Jayalakshmi Vilas Mansion way?' by N.K.A. Ballal, Retd. Sr. Vice-President, ITDC, published in SOM on May 23, it is disheartening to witness the repetitive and deplorable state of affairs concerning the preservation of our city's royal heritage.

Lalitha Mahal, an awe-inspiring edifice originally constructed as a Royal Guest House, is tragically falling into disrepair, dealing a severe blow to the esteemed heritage of Namma Mysuru.

As highlighted, successive Governments have shown a remarkable tendency to procrastinate, failing to make timely decisions. Consequently, iconic structures such as Lansdowne Building, Devaraja Market and Jayalakshmi Vilas Mansion have been allowed to deteriorate over the years, serving as a testament to the distressing lack of pride in safeguarding our invaluable heritage buildings.

The Governments have consistently resorted to the predictable strategy of forming committees ad nauseum, engaging in endless deliberations while accomplishing very little.

They often cite insufficient funds as an excuse, but this does not prevent them from compromising the sacred sanctity of Chamundi Hill by encroaching upon its surroundings and transforming it into a tourist attraction, thereby endangering its pristine environment.

The newly elected Government, having assumed power with a popular mandate, has inherited a burdensome legacy. This presents both an opportunity and a test for it to demonstrate its commitment to redeeming itself and solidifying its popularity.

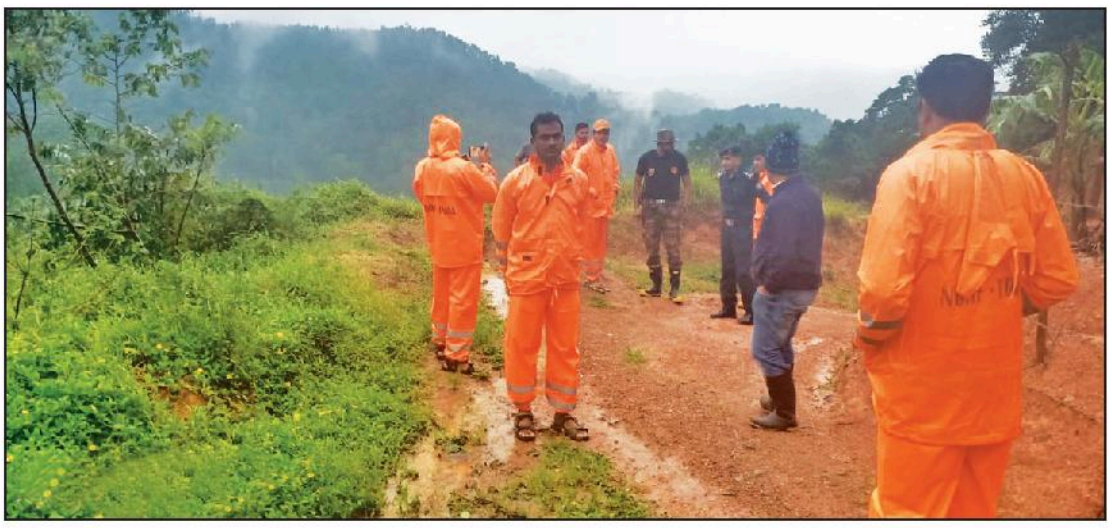
NDRF team to Kodagu in June first week: DC

Dr. B.C. Satish



Madikeri, May 25 (PS&BCT)- A team from the National Disaster Response Force (NDRF) is set to arrive in Kodagu in the first week of June, said Kodagu Deputy Commissioner (DC) Dr. B.C. Satish during a press briefing in Madikeri.

"Till now, the NDRF team was accommodated at Maithri, Police Community Bhavan in Madikeri. This year, they will be stationed at Police Bhavan near the Road Transport Office," he said.

The NDRF team will be deployed in preparation for the monsoon season, primarily focusing on handling emergencies such as landslides and floods. Their timely arrival in June, prior to the onset of the monsoon, aims to enhance preparedness and instil confidence among the public, he said.

"We have received broad guidelines from the CM on the measures to be taken to minimise damage and lessen the suffering. We will closely coordinate with other agencies. Meetings have been conducted by the District Disaster Management Authority (DDMA) involving Chamundeshwari Electricity Supply Corporation (CESC), National Highways Authority of India (NHAI), Public Works Department (PWD), Forest and Irrigation Department and other allied Departments," the DC revealed.

Mock drills, evacuations

One of the key initiatives planned by the NDRF team is the implementation of mock drills. These exercises aim to showcase the team's capabilities in managing emergencies, serving as a reassurance to the local population. The District Administration is ready to deal with extreme monsoon situations that may arise, he added.

Since the devastating disaster in 2018, wherein Kodagu faced significant damages due to mass landslides where mountains caved in, the NDRF team has been consistently camping in the region during every monsoon season. They collaborate closely with State rescue teams, including the State Disaster Response Force (SDRF), to facilitate coordinated rescue operations.

Strategic deployment in vulnerable areas

Their strategic deployment in vulnerable areas plays a crucial role in addressing floods and landslides promptly and effectively. The NDRF team has a commendable track record, having successfully managed rescue operations during the calamities that struck Kodagu in both 2018 and 2019. As a proactive measure, they have continued to stay deployed in the district to ensure prompt action in case of any potential disasters, the DC noted.

In preparation for the upcoming monsoon, the Kodagu District Administration will take proactive measures to identify areas prone to landslides and floods. It will collaborate with local administrations in the taluks and Panchayat levels to implement precautionary measures aimed at minimising the impact of any adverse weather events.

Fund availability

Nodal Officers have already been appointed from the Panchayat level, especially in flood-prone areas and relief works will be taken up based on the previous years' patterns and locations. Shelter homes with all basic facilities and food will be opened to house people in flooded and low-lying areas. As a precautionary measure, they will be shifted to safety before their houses are marooned.

On the available funds, Dr. Satish said that Rs. 57 crore is available in the account of the DC and apart from the funds that have already been earmarked for impending works, Rs. 20 crore is readily available for flood relief works and more funds will be made available by the State Government in case of need, Dr. Satish added.

Huge tree uproots in Collegiate Education Department premises

Mysuru, May 25 (MTY&KS)- A huge tree got uprooted in the Department of Collegiate Education premises on Mysuru-Hunsur Main Road here yesterday morning.

A part of the huge tree with big branches aged about over 80 years and standing more than 100 ft. tall in the Collegiate Education Department premises located behind the new building of the Post-Graduation Department of Maharani's Arts College came crashing down due to weight of its branches.

The tree fell on the power line and its huge branch fell on the branch of another tree in the College premises bringing it down in the process.

As the tree fell at about 9.30 am yesterday, the staff of the Collegiate Education Department had not come. Many staff used to park their vehicles under this tree and even students used to sit under this tree. But the tree fell before the staff and students arrived, which prevented a major tragedy from taking place. CESC had cut off the power supply and the staff, who rushed to the spot, cleared the branches and took steps to resume power supply.

Gem-studded ivory bracelets seized

Madikeri, May 25 (PS&BCT)- Two exquisite gem-studded bracelets made of elephant tusks were seized in Madikeri yesterday by the CID Forest Unit Police and one person has been arrested. The accused was trying to sell the jewellery in the town.

Based on definite information, the CID sleuths raided a bus shelter near Sudarshan Circle on the Madikeri-Siddapur Road and arrested 47-year-old P. Pradeep Kumar, a resident of Kollegal. The huge tusks have been cut into small pieces and shaped like bracelets with colourful gemstones attached to metal hinges.

The sleuths posed as potential buyers and raided the place. Sub-Inspector C.U. Savi, staff Shekar, Rajesh, Raghavendra, Yogesh, Umesh, Swamy and Manjunath were part of the raiding team.

Sources said that the ivory items will be sent to the laboratory for forensic examination and DNA testing, which would help establish its genuineness and origin. "In some cases, smugglers showed genuine ivory jewellery to fool people and later sold fakes. It looks like they have collected them from others. There is no elephant poaching angle for now, but we are digging into the case," officers said.

Nagaraj (Ward 41) of the same party as Chairperson of Finance Standing Committee. Senior Congress Corporator H.M. Shanthakumari (Ward 32) was elected as Chairperson of City Planning and Reforms Standing Committee.

Though the Mayoral polls for the last term of the current tenure of the 65-member MCC was held in the first week of September last in which Shivakumar and Dr. G. Roopa, both of BJP, were elected as the Mayor and Deputy Mayor respectively, there was delay in the conduct of polls for Standing Committees, reportedly due to political reasons. The Opposition Congress had protested undue delay in the holding of polls for these key posts in the Corporation, which was postponed five times.

Each Standing Committee consists of 7 members and one of them is elected Chairperson. Though the members were appointed following the last Mayoral polls, there was delay in electing the Heads.

Flyover in approval stage: MP

Furthermore, the length of the medians leading to the Circle from all four directions were reduced. This modification now allows for the passage of four to five vehicles simultaneously, effectively decreasing the travel time during peak hours.

This particular Junction is at one end of the Outer Ring Road circumambulating the city and spanning 42.5 kilometres, interconnecting Bengaluru Road, Bannur Road, T. Narasipur Road, Nanjangud Road, and Hunsur Road. Among these intersections, the Mysuru-Bengaluru Highway Junction is the busiest.

During his inspection this morning, MP Pratap Simha asked the PWD and the authorities from the Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) to widen the sides of the service roads and asphalt the stretches so that vehicles can move smoothly on the free-left stretches and giving more room for the highway vehicles to pass that particular stretch.

2019 proposal gathering dust

It is worth mentioning that despite the NHAI's approval of the proposal to develop the Manipal Hospital Junction in a cloverleaf shape back in 2019, the project never materialised.

Consequently, although the Expressway has reduced travel time between Bengaluru and Mysuru, the advantage of reaching Mysuru faster has been negated due to this delay, as motorists continue to face congestion at the Manipal Hospital Junction.

Stakeholders and road engineers emphasise that the implementation of a Cloverleaf Interchange would significantly alleviate traffic bottlenecks for the foreseeable future. In Bengaluru, Cloverleaf Interchanges have already been successfully deployed at the NICE Road Junction (Bannerghatta to NICE Road) and the Kanakapura Road to NICE Road Junction, greatly facilitating the smooth flow of traffic.

Some have suggested that NHAI engineers should conduct a cost-benefit analysis to determine whether a simpler flyover would suffice instead of the more expensive cloverleaf interchange.

Ibrahim, Nikhil resign after rout

Bengaluru, May 25 (BCT)- Following the defeat of JD(S) in the recent Assembly elections, party State President C.M. Ibrahim has taken moral responsibility and submitted his resignation. Additionally, Nikhil Kumaraswamy, the President of JD(S) youth wing Karnataka unit, has also tendered his resignation this noon, taking moral responsibility for the party's poor performance.

Nikhil Kumaraswamy, who contested from the Ramanagara seat previously held by his mother Anitha Kumaraswamy, was unable to secure a victory. In his resignation letter addressed to Ibrahim, Nikhil expressed his anguish over the JD(S)' underwhelming performance and acknowledged the opportunity it presents for rebuilding the party.

Meanwhile, party supremo and former Prime Minister H.D. Deve Gowda convened a meeting with the newly-elected MLAs at his residence in Bengaluru's Padmanabhanagar last evening.

During the meeting, he urged party leaders to engage in introspection and called for a national executive meeting and an introspection session on May 25 (today) to analyse the reasons behind the party's disappointing outcome.

Emphasising the need to transform the defeat into victory, Deve Gowda stated that it is now imperative for everyone to dedicate themselves to the party's cause.

In the meantime, there have been speculations about Bhavani Revanna, a JD(S) leader, potentially assuming the role of party State President. However, her husband and former Minister H.D. Revanna clarified that no such proposal has been put forward, and the final decision will be made by Deve Gowda and Kumaraswamy.

Madikeri, May 25 (PS&BCT)- Tamil Nadu Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) Chief K. Annamalai visited the General K.S. Thimayya Museum and War Memorial in Madikeri yesterday. The Museum celebrates the life of former Army Chief General Kodandera Subayya Thimayya, housing a variety of antique weaponry and war relics.

Accompanied by wife Akhila Swaminathan, son Arjun and daughter Aradhana, Annamalai went around the Museum and examined each and every artefact, war relic and memorabilia kept at 'Sunny Side,' the erstwhile ancestral house of General Thimayya that has been converted into a classy Museum.

Field Marshal K.M. Cariappa, General Thimayya Forum Convener Maj. (retd.) Biddanda Nanda Nanjappa explained the significance of the Museum, its rare collections and also about the awe-inspiring personality of General Thimayya, who served as India's Chief of Army Staff from 1957 to 1961.

Museum Manager Subedar Major Gowdanda Thimmaiah was also present.

Maj. Biddanda Nanjappa narrated to former IPS Officer Annamalai the earlier pathetic state of 'Sunny Side' that housed the Road Transport Office and the Forum's efforts to vacate the dilapidated building, refurbish and renovate the structure to house the Museum.

Impressed by the collections and the way they have been preserved, Annamalai said that General Thimayya continues to be a role model for all youths of India. At one point, he turned emotional and bowed down to pay his respects to the celebrated General with folded hands.

"General Thimayya was a towering personality who kept the interests of the nation first and his head was always held high. Kodagu is fortunate to have such a distinguished personality who has his roots here and the land of Kodagu is forever indebted. Everyone must visit the Museum and get inspired," he said.

Commending the efforts of Field Marshal K.M. Cariappa, General Thimayya Forum that toiled for years to set up a world-class Museum, Annamalai said that the members of the Forum, the general public and the people of Kodagu are spreading nationalism and patriotism across the country through the Museum. "I am fortunate to have visited such a place of pride," he added.

Annamalai, however, refused to speak politics with the reporters. "This is not the time to discuss politics and I have come to Kodagu with my family on a two-day trip," he said.

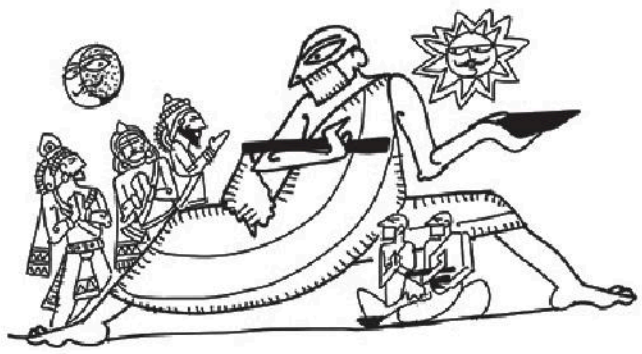
DECODING MYTHOLOGY

Dr. Devdutt Pattanaik - Author, Speaker, Illustrator, Mythologist

Jain Vaman and Jain Parashuram

Jainism thrived in the western part of India, along Gujarat coast, around 10th century CE. While Jains thrived amongst merchants, Hindus thrived amongst kings who controlled the agricultural economy. This avoided conflict. However, over time the two became rivals, competing for positions in the royal courts. Both offered skills in administration and finance. This professional rivalry manifested in rival storytelling. Therefore, we have Jain versions of Ramayana, Mahabharata and Puranas.



The Jain Ramayana, for example, says that it is Lakshman who kills Ravana and not Ram, because Ram adheres to the Jain value of non-violence. The Jain Mahabharata is a battle between Krishna of Dwarka and Jarasandh of Magadh rather than the Pandavas and the Kauravas.

For Jains, Vaman was not an avatar of Vishnu. He was a Jain monk called Vishnu-kumar, brother of a Jain Chakravarthi called Padma. A Jain teacher had told his students to avoid debates on the superiority of Jain philosophy. But his students, disregarding his advice, argued with the ministers of a local king. The ministers named Namuchi, Brihaspati, Bali and Prahalad were defeated. Upset, they asked the Jains to leave the royal kingdom. But it was the rainy season when monks are not supposed to travel. The Jain monks begged permission to stay, but the ministers would not relent.

To make peace, Vishnu-kumar was sent to negotiate. He asked for just three pieces of land, barely enough for the monks to stand on. The ministers relented. Vishnu-kumar then took upon a gigantic form. With two paces, he covered the entire kingdom. Then he asked, where could he take his third step, where the Jain Munis could live without fear. Seeing this form of the Jain Muni, the minister apologised for his arrogance and submitted to the Jain path.

This Jain version of the Vaman story is all about Jains finding shelter in a hostile kingdom, probably a metaphor for a kingdom controlled by Brahmins.

As per Jain lore, Parashuram was asked to behead his mother. This is because she had an affair with a king, Kartavirya Arjuna. In the Hindu version, there is no affair, just a momentary lapse of desire, but in the Jain Ramayana the infidelity is real. When Renuka is killed, an upset Kartavirya Arjuna wants to kill Parashuram. But upon not finding him, he kills Parashuram's father, Jamadagni, instead. This makes Parashuram so angry that he kills seven clans of the kshatriyas.

Kartavirya Arjuna's widow secretly gives birth to a king called Subhom. Subhom challenges Parashuram to a fight and defeats not only Parashuram but 21 families of Brahmins. He then establishes himself as Chakravarthi. This story of Parashuram's defeat and the killing of Brahmins is not found in Hindu literature.

While some people see mythology as history, we must appreciate that story-telling is often a tool to vent inner frustrations. Hindu stories of the Brahmin king Vaman overpowering the asura-king Bali and of Parashuram killing the Haihaiya king reveals an ancient Brahmin-Kshatriya narrative, or tension between Aryan sages and non-Aryan chiefs. Jain stories of Vaman and Parashuram, which appear centuries after the Hindu narrative seem like counter-narratives to either appropriate Hindu narratives or declare them false.

Mythological stories are best taken as beliefsystemsofsomepeopleratherthan historical facts of all people. No point arguing but great value in understanding.

Mysuru, May 25 (RK&DM)- After over a month of summer holidays, all Government Schools in the district will re-open for the new academic year (2023-24) on May 31.

DDPI Ramachandraraje Urs said that Government Schools have been asked to make preparations on May 29 for the re-opening. Head Masters have been directed to take precautionary measures in the backdrop of monsoon season, he added.

There are a total of 3,446 Government Schools in the district including 2,678 Primary Schools and 768 High Schools and all Schools have been issued instructions to make necessary preparations for re-opening.

The Education Department has set up teams for meeting any emergencies or exigencies during monsoon. Schools have been directed to ensure that children do not go near dilapidated buildings and to make proposals for declaring holiday for schools in case of heavy downpour.

Also School staff have been asked to form WhatsApp group for sharing information on emergencies, weather conditions etc.

Varuna Mitra Helpline 92433-45433

Schools have been asked to call Varuna Mitra Helpline 92433-45433 in case of help during natural disasters. Schools have been told to take measures for closing of any open drains, to alert CESC staff in case of any electric pole dangers, sagging electric wires etc., and to create awareness on Vector-borne diseases.

Meanwhile, many Private Unaided Schools in the city and district have already re-opened for the academic year 2023-24. While some Schools re-opened last week itself, several others re-opened on last Monday and a few others later this week, it is learnt.

Maharaja's College Hostel students stage protest, demand better facilities

Mysuru, May 25- Alleging that their hostel was woefully lacking in facilities, the inmates of Maharaja's College Hostel staged a snap stir in front of the hostel here yesterday.

Complaining that they were receiving poor quality of drinking water and food, besides lack of other facilities, they alleged that there was no hygiene in the campus and the hostel building was home to rodents and reptiles.

Claiming that the water tank was not cleaned for months which had resulted in water contamination, they also alleged that the toilets lacked maintenance, resulting in stinking smell. Pointing out that only 5 out of the 9 toilets were in working condition, they claimed that the number of toilets was very less when compared to the number of students (450 students).

They also alleged that food was not supplied as per menu though each of the inmates paid a hostel fee of Rs. 2,000 per month. They also charged the University authorities of threatening them if they complained of any problems.

College Dean Dr. Chandrashekar, who rushed to the spot, assured the inmates that their problems would be addressed and action will be taken against negligent staff, following which the stir was withdrawn.

WORD OF THE DAY

Telegenic

Pronunciation: tel-uh-JEN-ik.
Meaning: Someone or something described as telegenic is well-suited to the medium of television. Telegenic is often used to describe people whose appearance or manners are particularly attractive to television viewers.

Origin: Telegenic debuted in the 1930s, a melding of television with photogenic, "suitable for being photographed especially because of visual appeal." The word photogenic had other, more technical meanings before it developed that one in the early decades of the 20th century, but the modern meaning led to the use of -genic of interest here: "suitable for production or reproduction by a given medium." (That sense is also found in the rarer videogenic, a synonym of telegenic.) Telegenic may seem like a word that would primarily be used to describe people, but there is evidence of telegenic describing events (such as popular sports), objects, and responses. Occasionally, one even sees reference to a telegenic attitude, presence, charisma, or other intangible.

Example: "[Alison] Roman ... learned at Bon Appétit that she was telegenic. She is the rare influencer who projects the same energy in person as she does on camera. Her wit and candor buoy the cooking video genre from informative to outright entertaining. Some of her fans comment that they tune in every week with no intention of making the recipes, just to watch Roman try to dislodge ingredients from her overstuffed refrigerator." —Eliana Dockterman, Time, 19 Mar. 2023

THE ODD WORD

Bangtail

Mustang or wild horse.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

Bad news travels fast

Meaning: The proverbial saying 'bad news travels fast' can be taken literally. In a wider sense it is a comment on human nature being more interested in failure than success.

Origin: 'Bad news travels fast' is first found in print in the English author Thomas Kyd's tragedic play The Spanish Tragedy, which was written sometime between 1582 and 1592. It includes these lines:

If he lived, the news would soon be here.
Nay, evil news fly faster still than good

There's not a great deal more to say about this expression. Unlike many proverbs, it is merely a literal observation on life rather than the more commonplace uplifting metaphorical motto intended to spur us to greater morality or industry.

QUOTE BOX

I am so clever that sometimes I don't understand a single word of what I am saying. —Oscar Wilde
